CT FailSafe® Bullets

• Specially constructed nose – a deep hollow point in the homogenous, specially treated copper alloy nose causes dramatic expansion with high weight retention resulting in a large diameter wound channel • Integral separation between front and rear chambers – the hard separating wall halts expansion and shields rear core from deformation at high impact velocities • Winchester's patented steel cup – a tough steel cup further protects rear core from deformation, allows bullet to penetrate deeply and prevents post-impact bullet deflection • Hardened lead rear core – the lead alloy rear core is extremely concentric and form-fitted to jacket for maximum accuracy and weight retention • Positive heel closure – a heel closure disc prevents core slippage or separation on impact which maximizes retained mass and provides deep penetration • Molybdenum Disulfide exterior bullet coating – Moly coating reduces fouling, pressure and friction between bullet and bore
